on location in Rome

Today's issue of CW is coming to you from Rome courtesy of Regent Seven Seas Cruises.

REGENT Seven Seas Cruises is this week hosting almost 150 key trade partners and media from across the Asia-Pacific region, who will experience the brand new Regent Seven Seas Splendor on a special preview cruise from Rome to Barcelona.

The 750-passenger all-suite, all-balcony vessel is being promoted with the tag-line "luxury perfected", and continues Regent's intense focus on offering the very best in the cruise industry.

Splendor expands the Regent fleet to five luxury ships - more in Cruise Weekly all this week.

Scenic reveals first Emerald super yacht

THE Scenic Group will introduce a new 100-passenger super yacht to its fleet in Jul 2021, specialising in cruising the waters of the Adriatic Coast, the Red Sea and the Mediterranean Sea (CW breaking news).

Emerald Azzurra (render pictured) will be the first vessel launched under the new Emerald Yacht Cruises brand, with Scenic's owner and Chairman Glen Moroney confident the upcoming ship will prove to be an important addition to the range of cruises offered by Emerald Waterways.

"The launch of Emerald Yacht Cruises and the stunning new Emerald Azzurra are a logical extension of the Emerald Cruises portfolio, adding intimate yacht cruising to its Emerald Waterways river cruise offering," he said.

"This launch also provides a unique opportunity to introduce the Emerald Cruises brand to the Australian market".

The vessel is certified for passenger ship operations in all oceans except the Polar Seas, and will boast rare access to smaller ports and harbours which can only be reached by small yachts, exploring local towns and villages rarely visited by cruise ships.

Features of the 50-cabin Azzurra include the spacious Reflections Restaurant, balconies for 88% of cabins, and a special marina platform for activities such as paddleboarding and snorkelling - watch Moroney discuss the finer details of the upcoming ship at Scenic's awards night HERE.

Scenic's Night of Stars

IT WAS a night of celebration on Sat at the eighth annual Scenic "Night of Stars" held at Sydney's ivy Ballroom, with agents recognised for their selling efforts over the past year.

The event was attended by more than 250 guests including Scenic Group founder and Chairman Glen Moroney, together with a slew of celebrities from popular Nine Network TV program Getaway.

Zany TV weather reporter Stevie Jacobs kicked off the evening as Master of Ceremonies, which saw attendees wined and dined to fabulous fare as entertainment was provided by an energetic dance troupe and music from accomplished jazz musicians.

Then it was onto the awards with 10 agencies from across Australia achieving Diamond Status, as well as winners announced from each state and New Zealand for both Scenic and sister brand Evergreen.

Group General Manager, Sales

& Marketing Australasia, Anthony Laver said "the Night of Stars event is our opportunity to acknowledge and recognise the outstanding achievements of our consortia, agency partners and consultants during 2019."

The evening also saw an hilarious blooper reel played with TV stars Catriona Rowntree, Kate Ceberano, Livinia Nixon fluffing their lines on camera with some colourful language muttered.

Sydney cruises live

JOURNEY Beyond is now open for bookings, offering lunch and dinner cruises of Sydney Harbour on a small 90-passenger ship.

Menus provide meal options featuring produce sourced from seasonal locations and wine from some of NSW's most popular regions.

MOST cruisers know that being near the ocean can be a romantic experience, and one tourist attraction taking advantage of this phenomenon is the Vancouver Aquarium, which will host a very special "adults only" after-hours party on Valentine's Day.

For only US$38 per person, couples can take in all of the marine life in a child-free environment, whilst also noshing on cheese and wine.

Interestingly, the event will also talk love-struck attendees through how each species generally, >coughs<, gets it on.

Looks like these sea otters are preparing to get a head-start on the big night if you ask us.
