

Aurora clears out Russian coast

Aurora Expeditions is offering last-minute discounts on two voyages.

AHEAD OF TOMORROW'S RELEASE OF ITS 2012 Arctic program, the Australian cruise line has reduced fares for selected sailings this year.

Explosion rocks RCI

PASSENGERS ONBOARD ROYAL CARIBBEAN'S Independence of the Seas have suffered minor injuries following an explosion beside the vessel as she was preparing to depart the port of Gibraltar in the UK yesterday.

According to Royal Caribbean all 10 passengers who were physically affected by the blast have subsequently received medical treatment from Independence's onboard facilities, whilst the only two guests who were onshore when the blast happened are currently being looked after by RCI's Care Team.

The explosion itself is reported to have occurred in a fuel tank which was positioned on the dock, although it is not yet known what caused it to go up in flames.

The cruise line confirmed that, for safety reasons, immediately following the blast Independence withdrew its gangway and moved "a safe distance from the dock".

Independence is currently on a 14-night itinerary that departed Southampton, England on Saturday 28 May.

The 16 Sep 'Ring Of Fire', Aurora's Russian Far East voyage, has been cut by 10 per cent, with consumer prices starting at US$7,250 per person.

Departing from Petropavlovsk, this 13-day cruise showcases the valleys and snow-capped volcanoes of Kamchatka, with Zodiac excursions to view brown bears, seabirds, sea lions, whales and otters.

Part of Aurora's inaugural Russian Arctic program, 'Voyage to the End of the Earth' has been cut by 15 per cent.

Departing from Murmansk on 26 Jul, the 14-day adventure is priced from US$8,080pp.

Only accessible by sea, Franz Josef Land's 191 islands are home to polar bears, walrus, seals and the beluga whale.

Both voyages will set sail on Aurora's newly acquired ship, the 54-passenger Akademik Shokalskiy.

Speaking to CW, Lisa Bolton, general manager, Aurora Expeditions, said the 'Across The North Passage' itinerary (10 Aug) had attracted the most attention this season.

"We are the first passenger ship to transit that water at that time of year, crossing nine time zones" Bolton said.

"One of our competitors, Quark Expeditions, does it in an ice-breaker but the Akademik Shokalskiy is an ice-strengthened research ship."

Bolton announced today that the 2 Sep Greenland voyage is also 10% off.

'Jewels of the Arctic' via Spitsbergen and Iceland, departs Keflavik on 2 Sep and ends in Longyearbyen on 15 Sep.

To view the full Russian Coast program visit www.auroraexpeditions.com.au.

Cruising Alaska

It's that time of the year when many Aussies and Kiwis are heading to a perennial favourite cruise region – Alaska.

Aside from cruising throughout Australia, New Zealand and the South Pacific, Alaska has consistently been one of the top cruise destinations from this market – and why not, it is a stunning part of the world!

Breathtaking scenery, gleaming glaciers, abundant wildlife and native culture are just a few of the spectacular attractions that draw visitors to cruise Alaska.

A typical Alaska itinerary of seven days will sail through the Inside Passage and visit spectacular Glacier Bay National Park or Hubbard Glacier.

The most popular ports of call along the way are Juneau, Skagway, Ketchikan and Sitka.

Most cruise lines also offer a variety of extended cruise-tour package options which take passengers deeper into Alaska via train and include land stays at lodges and sightseeing in Denali National Park – making their trip to Alaska even more comprehensive.

For climate and sunlight purposes, cruises to Alaska sail strictly during the northern hemisphere summer months of May to mid-September.

June, July and August can be classified as peak season although May and September are the most popular months for Aussies and Kiwi's.

While the majority of ships sail from Vancouver, Seattle is increasingly becoming a popular embarkation point for many lines.

CCL lures trade with incentives

Carnival Cruise Lines is giving away thousands of iTunes vouchers to travel agents.

CCL HAS THIS WEEK COMMENCED ITS FIRST ROUND of trade incentives to Australian and NZ retail and wholesale travel agents to encourage training and bookings for Carnival Spirit.

The training incentive started on Monday and closes on 10 Jun 2011.

To take part, entrants must complete the Carnival Spirit training module or attend a webinar next week (7 or 8 Jun 2011).

By correctly answering all questions in a short quiz, agents can win a $20 iTunes voucher in a total prize pool worth up to $5000.

The booking incentive requires agents to make a fully deposited booking via POLAR Online on Carnival Spirit between 30 May and 24 Jun 2011.

Entrants are also required to creatively answer a question (in 25 words or less) to be eligible to win a $50 iTunes voucher.

The winners of both promotions will be decided on 1 Jul and will be contacted via post.

From Oct 2012, Carnival Spirit will set sail from Sydney to the Pacific Islands or from Sydney and Melbourne to Australia's coastline, or NZ, and will be the first CCL ship to home-port in Australia year-round.

Bonus commission

AZAMARA CLUB CRUISES IS GIVING AN EXTRA $200 worth of commission to agents for every new cabin booking on selected European 2011 sailings by 30 Jun.

The bonus commission will be paid out on a selection of 10 European sailings, as well as voyages on Azamara Journey departing 8, 17 and 24 Sep and 4 Oct; and cruises on Azamara Quest departing 1, 8, 15 and 26 Oct and 6, 17 Nov.

In addition to commission deals, Azamara is also offering guests incentives, including a complimentary upgrade from Oceanview rooms to Balcony cabins and US$500 on board credit per cabin on 10 selected Europe cruises.

Travel health warning

TRAVELVAX AUSTRALIA IS URGING TRAVELLERS TO beware of fake medicines whilst overseas, due to a rise in the numbers of phony medications on the market.

According to Travelvax 3-in-10 medications sold in Africa, Asia and Latin America are counterfeit; whilst 50-60% of medications tested in parts of Asia and Africa have too little - or no - active ingredient.

Travelvax also added that there has been a surge in counterfeit drugs in developed nations.

"To the untrained eye they look like the real thing, but many contain little or no active ingredient... they could even contain toxic ingredients and it's not worth risking your life to save a few dollars," said Dr Ed Bajrovic, medical director of Travelvax Australia.

As such, Travelvax recommends Aussie travellers buy reputable anti-malarial, diarrhoea drugs and other medications recommended for their trip before leaving the country.

MEANWHILE the company is also warning holidaymakers of an outbreak of typhoid in Fiji.

BENTOURS HAS CONFIRMED THAT IT HAS RENEWED its distribution agreement with Hurtigruten.

"Hurtigruten is one of our most popular products and this continued representation comes as great news for us," said Bentours business head in Australia Jeremy Hearst.

"We have been associated with Hurtigruten for over 30 years and look forward to continuing to offer this unique experience," he added.

Win a trip to the Arctic

AURORA EXPEDITIONS HAS GOTTEN BEHIND THE Sydney Ice Bear project by offering Aussies the chance to win a trip of a lifetime.

The Ice Bear project kicks off tomorrow when British ice sculptor, Mark Coreth carves a giant polar bear out of ice at Customs House Square in Sydney.

Over the next 3-4 days the polar bear will gradually melt, exposing a bronze skeleton underneath.

The project is designed to raise awareness of the environmental issues currently threatening the existence of the bears.

As a major sponsor of the effort, Aurora is offering a trip for two to the Arctic valued at $20,000 including flights, transfers and a Spitsbergen Odyssey voyage in July 2012.

Entries for the competition are now open with people now able to enter at www.facebook.com/sydneyicebear, as well as at the Sydney Ice Bear stand, Customs House Square from 3-10 June.

Blackwatch in the Baltic

FRED OLSEN CRUISE LINES HAS RELEASED ITS brochure of worldwide cruises for 2012-13, featuring worldwide and regional sailings out of Dover, Southampton, Portsmouth, Newcastle, Greenock (Glasgow) or Rosyth (Edinburgh).

In amongst her 2012 line-up Boudicca will feature two long voyages to the Caribbean and the Amazon, as well as a winter cruise to Norway (all from Portsmouth), voyages to the Canaries, the Adriatic, Iberia and Norway (from Greenock), and to the Baltic, Norway, the North Cape and Iceland (from Rosyth).

Her sister-ship Blackwatch will be based in Dover for most of the year operating voyages to the Mediterranean, around the UK, the Baltic, the Black Sea, Greenland and Iceland, and the Atlantic Islands; as well as a World Cruise, a Christmas Caribbean cruise and an Indian Ocean voyage (from Southampton).

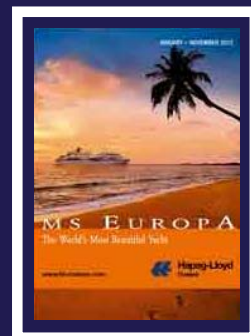

For full program details visit www.fredolsencruises.com.

Brochure of the week

Hapag-Lloyd Cruises has enhanced its shore excursion concept in the 2012 Ms Europa brochure.

The 2012 program contains eight itineraries travelling to the Far East, Italy, Great Britain, Norway, the Baltic Sea, the Adriatic Sea and the Seychelles.

Advanced excursion bookings will allow guests to have a more personalised voyage, see www.hl-cruises.com/.

NCL's meeting website

NORWEGIAN CRUISE LINE HAS LAUNCHED A NEW website and brochure designed to help meeting planners in exploring and booking meetings, incentive groups and corporate events (MICE).

The website showcases the features and flexible options available to MICE groups onboard NCL's fleet of ships, and also offers supporting tools and answers to frequently asked questions.

The new planning brochure discusses the benefits of MICE cruise travel over land packages, and also contains a pull out fleet guide - see www.events.ncl.com.

Kids Night Owls

CARNIVAL CRUISE LINES IS ROLLING OUT LATE NIGHT childrens entertainment options onboard its entire fleet, under the banner Camp Carnival Night Owls.

Designed to give parents a night off, the kids Night Owl parties are conducted in the vessels' play rooms at least once per voyage, under the supervision of Carnival's youth staff.

The late night parties are available for three different age groups including Owl Jams for two to 11 year olds between 10pm and 1am (US$13); Fun 'Til One for six to eight year olds between 10pm and 1am (US$20); and Fun at Sea for nine to 11 year olds from 10pm till 3am (US$33).

The Night Owls program also offers nightly babysitting between 10pm and 3am, which is designed as a "fun filled slumber party at sea" at a cost of US$6.75 per hour.

Costa spills the beans on new 2011/12 programs

COSTA CRUISES HAS AMPED UP ITS WORLDWIDE FALL 2011 AND SPRING 2012 PROGRAMS, WITH A SERIES OF new four-, five- and six-day mini-cruises onboard Costa Atlantica calling into Barcelona, Ibiza/Palma de Mallorca, Ajaccio and Marseille, allowing guests who don't have reams of holiday time up their sleeve the chance to experience the cruise line.

In addition Costa will offer new programs in the Caribbean including alternating eight-day itineraries out of Guadeloupe onboard Costa Mediterraanea from 01 Dec this year to 24 Mar 2012.

Costa has also responded to increasing demand for its South America cruising product by positioning Costa Victoria in Santos between Dec 2011 and Mar 2012, where she will offer 10-day cruises calling into Rio de Janeiro, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, Porto Belo and Ilhabela.

Meanwhile new programs have also been designed in the Canary Islands and Madeira between Nov 2011 and Mar 2012, with Costa Serena offering a selection of 12-day cruises to the region, whilst Costa Marina will feature a 15-day Canary Islands and Madeira itinerary from Savona taking in Spain, Morocco, the Canary Islands and Madeira.

Costa Allegra

In terms of the cruise line's Asian program Costa Victoria will feature a 73-day repositioning cruise from Santos on 07 Mar 2012 to Shanghai, which can be broken up and sold in four individual segments.

Once in Shanghai Costa Victoria will offer a selection of five-, six-, seven-, and eight-day voyages - see www.costacruises.com.

Golf cruise charter

EVENTS WORLDWIDE TRAVEL GROUP, IN conjunction with Gourmet Golf Tours, has chartered Orion Expedition Cruises' Orion II for a dedicated golf cruise in Vietnam.

Departing Ho Chi Minh on 09 Nov, the 10-day voyage is hosted by PGA golfer Ian Stanley and visits five of Vietnam's best golf courses, with prices starting at $9,395 (tourer) and $9,995 (golfer).

See www.events.com.au for details.

See www.uniworldcruises.com.au.

PIRATE COVE IS THE NEXT HOT DESTINATION.

Movie-goers in the US have responded to a recent travel survey, saying they would most like to visit "Whitecap Bay" out of Pirates of the Caribbean On Stranger Tides, above any other destination showcased in the current slew of blockbusters.

Whitecap Bay, the fictitious body of water surrounding an un-named bay inhabited by slightly menacing mermaids, plays a starring role in the latest Pirate's movie, as the pirate cove in which Captain Jack Sparrow, Black Beard and Barbossa visit whilst sailing On Stranger Tides to discover the fountain of youth.

In the real world Whitecap Bay is actually closer to most peoples reach, being that filming for the Whitecap Bay scenes was undertaken in Halona Cove on Oahu, whilst some sandy shots were also taken in Puerto Rico and other parts of the Hawaiian Islands.

A NEW TARGET MARKET FOR CRUISE LINES?

There seems to be a growing number of travellers who like to take their pets away with them, including one English lady, Jane Hartley, who made headlines recently after she revealed she likes to take her pet parrots on ski holidays to the Alps.

Hartley told media that she does not like to keep her birds in a cage, and as such they routinely join her on the morning and afternoon school runs, shopping trips, bicycle rides and family holidays.

When skiing, Hartley tucks the birds into special pockets in her outfit to keep them toasty and happy.
