TravelManagers cruise focus

TRAVELMANAGERS has revamped its cruise strategy over the recent months, with the company now offering its homebased Personal Travel Managers membership of Cruiseco at a "greatly reduced price".

Speaking at the group's 2016 National Conference in Bangkok last weekend, operations manager Pru Gallagher said the Cruiseco membership is subsidised by TravelManagers' National Partnership Office (NPO), and gives individual members the ability to participate in Cruiseco cooperative advertising with a direct call to action.

Other cruise-based initiatives include NPO coordinated cruise group activities and processes, a cruise newsletter, cruise training and webinars for PTMs and regular 'Cruise Sale weeks'.

Gallagher said the strategy was already bearing fruit, with a recent Cruise Sale Week generating about 300 passenger bookings - a threefold increase on a similar promotion undertaken just twelve months ago.

MEANWHILE the conference also included an activity for delegates in partnership with Australian charity group Hands Across the Water, which has raised more than $16 million over the last decade to assist children in need in Thailand.

Founder Peter Baines, started the organisation after seeing the devastation of the 2004 Boxing Day tsunami while he worked in Thailand as a forensic investigator helping identify bodies, said Cruiseco is also a key partner of the group.

He paid tribute to Cruiseco's Steve Lloyd, noting that under a longstanding partnership, $5 from every Cruiseco booking goes to the charity and has helped build a nursery at the Baan Tharn Namchai orphanage.

Liverpool expansion?

A $1.6M feasibility study into a proposed new cruise terminal development in Liverpool, UK has been given the go-ahead.

The port is pushing for the construction of a purpose built facility capable of attracting additional turnaround business & handling up to 3,600 passengers.

Liverpool's existing cruise berth opened nine years ago, with a temporary passenger facility added in 2012.

Mayor of Liverpool Joe Anderson said the limited space in the existing facility is holding the city back.

"I am determined that we find solutions to continue the growth we have seen in cruise business," he added.

MARKETING MANAGER | CAIRNS

Coral Expeditions, Australia's leading small ship cruise line, has embarked on a new phase of growth after 33 years of successful operations. Emerging from a recent re-brand, it is now looking for an ambitious, digitally savvy marketing professional who can make a mark by leading the build-out of our brand footprint globally.

Position Description:

The Marketing Manager devises innovative approaches to global advertising and marketing, building on our reputation as Australia's pioneering cruise line. This includes working with our external design and public relations partners to manage marketing and communications programmes and acting as the guardian of our brand. As a tactician, he/ she administers our annual advertising budget, wholesaler and travel trade relationships, and other promotional activities. He/she also is responsible for managing our past passenger community - Xplorers Club.

The position is suitable for an ambitious, up and coming marketing professional who wishes to build a career in a small but growing company based in a tropical location. Our work environment is informal, collaborative and action-oriented.

The position is preferred for a Cairns based individual but willing to consider candidates based in Australia, with substantial Australian work experience. Overseas applications will not be entertained.

What we are looking for:

- · At least 8 years of professional experience, with at least 3 years as leader of a marketing function in Australia
- · An affinity for design and creative communication
- Comfortable with data and financial / ROI analytics
- · Experience with digital marketing
- · Comfortable in a small company environment

Alaska incident

A BROWN bear has attacked two expedition guides from a cruise operator as they led a shore excursion in Alaska.

The group reportedly came between the female animal and her cub in the Tongass National Forest late last week.

The guides have been airlifted to hospital & all pax are unharmed.

Amsterdam security

THE Port of Amsterdam has bulked up its overnight security in response to several reports of burglaries on board river cruise ships while they're docked.

By night, M&M Security will oversee surveillance and security at De Ruijterkade, quays 17 and 18, De Ruijterkade Oost, quays A, B, C, D, De Ruijterkade West, Veemkade (PTA) and Javakade.

"Monitoring our river cruise mooring locations should impede calamity and give the pax an extra sense of security," said Alma Prins, sales manager cruise at Port of Amsterdam.

This year, more than 1,800 river cruise ships will call into the port.

PASSENGERS stepping ashore in Maine in the US might think twice about where they tread, after a 10-foot snakeskin was found on the bank of the Presumpscot River.

Residents of Westbrook, Maine have reported sightings of the snake which has been affectionately named "Wessie".

The snake has thus far escaped police, who have warned people who recreate along the river to "remain alert, maintain a safe distance from any wildlife."

Wessie has accumulated a fanbase and now has a Facebook and Twitter account.

Some residents are offering up their place for Wessie to take refuge on Facebook, but have been knocked back with response "It'sssssss freedom and the open trail for thissssss ssssssnake!"

On Twitter, Wessie has advised those searching to "Make sure you all separate and search individually".
